LAGER

Light bottom fermented lager beer is brewed according to the Pilsen recipe. The founder and the most prominent representative of this category is the Czech Pilsner Urquell, whose tradition dates back to 1842 and it is the real gem among Czech beers. Let's try the taste of Pilsner beer which is world-wide known.

KINGSWOOD APPLE CIDER

Let's learn about the world in which there seems to be only one time of a day and a year – a warm summer evening. The world of excellent cider - a drink which brings into your life the atmosphere of summer, wherever you want.

Kingswood is cider, for which production there are used the special varieties of apples grown in special orchards. It contains no chemical preservatives, artificial colours, sweeteners or aromas. It was developed to be served especially on ice. It is gluten-free, so celiacs can drink it.

TANK BEER

Enjoy the freshest beer directly from the brewery. It does not come into any contact with air and so it keeps the highest quality. Beer is pampered all the time in the ideal conditions of brewery cellars until your glass. Beer is got by the shortest way from the brewery to you.

UNPASTERIZED BEER

Beer full of life thanks it's unique process of microfiltration. There is no need to pasteurize it and beer itself remains alive and keeps its distinctive refreshing taste, characteristic aroma and crystal sparkle which is appreciated only by a true connoisseur of beer.

ALE

It is typically fermented at higher temperatures when the yeast can produce significant amounts of esters and other secondary flavour and aroma products. The result is full-bodied taste. There is beer turbidity thanks to a dose of wheat malt and yeast.
